

Feeling Fine After Ordeal

Feeling as good as new after spending four lonely hours in Squally Reach, Saanich Inlet, is 74-year-old Evan Pederson, 1758 Peatt Road, who quietly "mugged up" with coffee at Hall's Boathouse shortly after being found at 8 p.m. last night.—(Colonist photo by Ted Harris.)

Millions For Missiles

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—The U.S. air force will build a $300,000,000 intermediate range ballistic missile launching site about 100 miles northwest of here, the Anchorage Times reports.

DR. VANNEVAR BUSH
... "sometimes disgraceful."

Missiles Lag

Service Rivalry Blamed

WASHINGTON (UP)—Dr. Vannevar Bush, veteran scientific adviser to the government, charged yesterday that the U.S. missile program has been hampered by "damaging... sometimes disgraceful" rivalry among the armed forces.

He also told the senate preparedness subcommittee that the missile program is "in a tangle because of an absence of overall planning."

Bush and Dr. Edward Teller, "father" of the H-bomb, testified at the opening session of the subcommittee's much-heralded investigation of this country's failure to keep abreast of Russia in the missile-satellite field. (See Page 9.)

Gale Force Winds Lash Wide Area

Sudden gale-force winds drove a 74-year-old Langford fisherman on the rocks in Saanich Inlet yesterday and made a mountainside search for two missing hunters near Lake Cowichan tough sledding.

The fisherman, Evan Pederson, 2758 Peatt Road, was found smoking his pipe by a fire he built on the rocks at Squally Reach, near his heavily damaged 16-foot boat.

24-HOUR ORDEAL

The hunters, Bill and Clarence Ross, aged 31 and 24, brothers from Youbou, trudged wearily into the village of Lake Cowichan from a more than 24-hour ordeal of being lost in dense woods in the Robertson River area.

Mr. Pederson, who likes to spend most of his time fishing, left Hall's Boathouse at Goldstream at 11:30 a.m. After fishing, "in good weather" in Finlayson Arm until the middle of the afternoon, he decided to try his luck in Squally Reach.

The "flash" winds caught his boat and drove it on the rocks. The inboard boat suffered heavy damage to one side.

DOWN FOR NIGHT

"I got a big fire burning, lit my pipe and sat down for the night," he said.

The fire was spotted by one of two searchers, George Williams, a Hall's Boathouse employee, and Mr. Pederson and his boat were rescued. He suffered no ill effects.

The Ross brothers had gone in one side of the mountain forming part of the Mesachie range early Sunday and walked out the other side, at Lake Cowichan, about 5 p.m. yesterday. They were hungry and weary, but in good shape.

RCMP and loggers searched all day for them.

POWER WIRES DOWN

In Victoria, the gusty winds tore power wires down at Bay and Rock Bay, snapped a power pole at Topaz and Graham, uprooted a tree and threw it against power lines on Fraser, ripped down a TV antenna at 104 Dallas, and may have been the cause of a chimney blaze at Langford.

Gusts of 79 miles per hour were recorded at Vancouver International Airport at 3:20 p.m., the highest winds ever recorded there.

The roof covering for practising golfers at Quadra Driving Range, valued at $600 to $700, was blown off.

LONDON (Reuters)—The Commonwealth bid to make the first land crossing of the Antarctic has begun from Shackleton base on Vahsel Bay. It was announced Monday.

Huge Talks Here Delightful Idea

Mayor Percy Scurrab was delighted yesterday that Premier Bennett had asked that the Commonwealth Trade Conference be held in Victoria next year.

"I think the premier has a brilliant idea," the mayor said. "I'm all for it."

The conference, he said, would be a very important one and would be of great value to the city—"It might well have permanent value to the city."

Chamber of Commerce president Hugh Stephen said the premier's suggestion was "wonderful—a chance for Victoria to draw the attention of the world."

With the experience gained from the big Canadian Chamber of Commerce convention held here this year, he said, "I feel quite confident the city could act as most worthy host to a conference of this type."

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER
... Asian flu?

Speech Cancelled

Ike in Bed After Chills Lay Him Low

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower suffered a series of chills after meeting King Mohammed V of Morocco at the airport yesterday and was ordered to bed by his physicians.

The illness forced the president to cancel plans to play host to the monarch at a White House dinner. He also postponed his third "Chins Up" speech in Cleveland, Ohio, slated for tonight.

The official announcement described the president's illness only as a "chill." But other White House sources said it apparently resembled Asian flu.

Acting press secretary Anne Wheaton said the president was given "a slight sedative" when it first became obvious he was ill.

Mrs. Wheaton said she did not know whether Eisenhower was running a fever.

"I was not told," she said. "I did not ask."

She also said she assumed that the president's physician, Maj. Gen. Howard Snyder, did not consider the illness "as serious."

Mrs. Wheaton said the president was "sleeping very quietly," adding that there would be no further report on the president's health "until tomorrow morning."

More Talks Set Today

PRIME MINISTER
MACMILLAN

PARIS (UP)—The prime minister of Britain and France failed to reach agreement on major issues yesterday in their attempt to heal the rift in the Western Big Three alliance.

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and French Premier Felix Gaillard held afternoon and evening sessions while French right-wingers staged angry demonstrations against Anglo-American arms shipments to Tunisia.

At the conclusion of the evening meeting, both British and French sources said that despite a "common effort" no agreement could be reached on major topics, including the future of NATO, Algeria and the creation of a European free trade zone. Further meetings are scheduled for today.

Hundreds of leather-jacketed French youths demonstrated near the U.S. embassy and fired skyrockets. Heavy police cordons guarded the British and U.S. embassies while riot police charged with clubs. At least six persons were injured and 200 arrested.

The demonstrations broke out a few hours after the opening of the talks, aimed at allaying French fears that Britain and the United States were trying to dominate NATO and were "muscling in" on the Algerian situation.

Ottawa Talks Open

Bennett Asks Money, Action on Jobs, Health

Diefenbaker's Words Carefully Recalled

By PETER BRUTON

Premier Bennett yesterday asked Ottawa for a larger slice of the tax revenue pie, immediate implementation of an all-embracing national health plan and measures to forestall predicted unemployment this winter.

The demands were included in an 18-page brief presented during the opening session of the two-day federal-provincial conference in Ottawa.

It is the first conference of its kind held since the Progressive Conservatives catapulted to power as the federal government last June—a fact that did not escape Premier Bennett.

'DOCUMENTATION'

Throughout the brief, statements by Prime Minister John Diefenbaker before the federal election were cited as "documentation" backing up B.C.'s demands.

B.C. asked that provinces be given 25 per cent of corporate and personal income taxes and 50 per cent of succession duties.

This formula would increase the present tax-sharing payments to B.C. during the current fiscal year by $26,651,000—from $38,983,000 to $65,634,000.

Premier Bennett accused the present agreement of "impeding proper national development" in almost every province in Canada.

Turning to a national health plan, the premier said B.C. was willing to take part in such a program immediately, sharing costs 50-50.

He asked that the plan include hospital care for all acute and chronic illnesses, including tuberculosis and mental illness; laboratory and X-ray diagnostic service; home nursing service; nursing home care of patients suffering from chronic illness; medical care service; and certain drugs, prescriptions, artificial limbs and appliances.

DENTAL CARE

Premier Bennett also suggested that dental care come under the national health plan—for children only at first, but including others as facilities became available.

On the subject of employment, the premier said that for the first time since the war "people and businesses face serious questions about their employment."

Unemployment insurance and provincial welfare measures were not satisfactory answers to unemployment, the B.C. brief said.

"The answer to unemployment is the provision of additional work which can be most speedily provided by the joint efforts of the federal and provincial governments and their municipalities," it said.

Moreover, this conference should not rise without reaching decisions which would provide additional work for our people this winter," the premier said.

The government asked that the federal government arrange for low-interest loans to municipalities at interest rates not exceeding two per cent.

MUST BE FOUND

"Municipalities are faced with the most widespread demands for expenditure," said the brief. "Money for municipal purposes must be found if the standards of our communities are to be maintained."

B.C. repeated its request for a federal capital subsidy for construction of the provincially-owned Pacific Great Eastern Railway.

The province is asking for a total of $19,762,500 in federal PGE grants.

Ottawa Hears Pleas of Poor

May Speed Health Plan, Diefenbaker Announces

OTTAWA (BUP) — The pleas of the poor and demands of the rich were heard yesterday by the federal government as Canada's 10 premiers made their pitch for a fatter (by $500,000,000) slice of the nation's tax dollar at the dominion-provincial fiscal conference.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker opened the conference with the announcement that the federal government favored the idea of the national hospital insurance plan going into operation with fewer than six provinces participating. He intimated, however, that the participating provinces would have to represent at least half the population of Canada.

NOT OPPOSED

He also said he was not opposed to including the cost of looking after tuberculosis and mental patients.

But he said the provinces would have to agree that the additional cost—$68,000,000 a year—of the extra benefits would have to be taken out of equalization payments made to the provinces.

Under legislation recently passed by Parliament, the provinces would not receive any federal funds for their hospital insurance plans until six provinces, representing at least half of Canada's population, had passed legislation setting up their hospital insurance schemes and signed agreements with the federal government.

EARLIER AID

The prime minister also announced that the federal government would start paying the provinces, under the Unemployment Assistance Act, for unemployed among the unemployed. At present, such assistance doesn't start until 45 per cent of the province's total population is unemployed.

The three Maritime premiers presented a united front in presenting their case at the conference. Mr. Diefenbaker said "some form" of special assistance should be provided for the Atlantic provinces, but left it up to the provinces to suggest what form the assistance should take.

QUICK PROPOSAL

Nova Scotia Premier Robert Stanfield, backed up by New Brunswick Premier Hugh John Fleming and Prince Edward Island's Premier A. W. Matheson, took up the suggestion immediately and proposed that the federal government pay the three Maritime provinces "adjustment grants," based on "deviation of personal income per family in the Maritimes from the national average."

Ontario Premier Leslie Frost, representing Canada's richest province, demanded from the federal government increased provincial payments in all tax fields. He declared that the present tax-sharing arrangements are "grossly unrealistic."

BIGGER SHARE

Frost restated his proposal that the provincial share of the taxation fields be increased to 15 per cent of federal income tax, 15 per cent of corporation tax and 50 per cent of succession duties.

The Ontario premier also demanded a greater share for the provinces of federal taxation on natural resource industries.

In a 40-minute speech, Quebec Premier Maurice Duplessis concentrated solely on the rights of the provinces to collect revenues through direct taxation and declared that his province would never sign any fiscal agreement that was not based strictly on taxation rights as set down in the British North America Act.

MAIN THEME

The fiery Union Nationale leader hammered home his one main theme throughout his speech—the distribution of tax powers in the BNA Act gave the provinces and federal government "equal rights" in taxation.

Bennett Urges Federal Aid For $523,000,000 Road Plan

A vast, five-year, $523,000,000 highway development program for B.C. with Ottawa picking up $81,927,300 annually for the five-year program. The provincial share would be $114,171,000, or $22,834,000 annually over five years.

The program, including the construction or reconstruction of 1,892 miles of primary and 1,083 miles of secondary roads, would cost a total of $523,807,000.

Included in the program was the extension of the Island Highway up to Port Hardy at the northern tip of Vancouver Island, the West Coast road, Alberni-Tofino road, and the Port McNeill-Zeballos road.

Ottawa's share of 90 per cent of primary and 50 per cent of the secondary and resource roads would be $409,636,000, or $81,927,300 annually for the five-year program. The provincial share would be $114,171,000, or $22,834,000 annually over five years.

The premier also quoted a statement by Prime Minister John Diefenbaker before the Conservatives became the federal government last June. Mr. Diefenbaker stated: "I believe that a national highway policy

Lawyer Protests to Ottawa

Court Record False? Judges Reject Appeal

TORONTO (CP) — Lewis Duncan made public Monday a letter to Justice Minister Fulton complaining about a Nov. 11 decision by a Supreme Court of Canada panel which included Mr. Justice Charles Locke.

The letter did not refer to another Supreme Court case Nov. 18 when Mr. Duncan objected to proceeding if Mr. Justice Locke sat on the panel. The court denied the objection. However, Mr. Justice Locke withdrew from the case.

WOULDN'T LOOK

In Ottawa, Mr. Justice Locke declined either to look at or comment on the letter.

He added that no doubt he would see the letter in the press "but I have no intention whatever of making any comment upon it at all."

The 2,000-word letter, dated Nov. 23, dealt with the court's dismissal of an application by William Lyle Kennedy, an Ontario farmer, for leave to appeal an Ontario Supreme Court judgment upholding his conviction on a vagrancy charge.

"EVEN FREEDOM"

The appeal application involved "the reputation and even the freedom of the subject, whether the record of hearing is true or false" and "touches the question of the magistrate's jurisdiction to convict."

The letter said that Kennedy, who lived in Bruce County, was arrested the day after he had a dispute with his lawyer

"owing to the way his solicitor had acted in a matter involving his wife and farm."

Kennedy was stopped by police while driving in his own car, taken to Walkerton and was not told why he was arrested, the letter continued. He was refused permission to call a lawyer, refused bail and had $240 in cash taken from him in the search.

On May 30, Kennedy appeared in court on a vagrancy charge under a section of the Criminal Code "designed to deal with loiterers and vagrants." Later, he was committed to an Ontario mental hospital which returned him to jurisdiction of the court with the report there was no indication of mental illness or mental deficiency.

On July 4, Kennedy appeared again. Magistrate Otto Conrad McClellan suspended sentence and bound him over to keep the peace.

WHICH PLEA?

On Oct. 1, Mr. Justice J. L. Wilson of the Ontario Supreme Court rejected an application for an order quashing the conviction. At this hearing, Crown counsel objected to the court hearing affidavits by a lawyer and others that Kennedy pleaded not guilty to the vagrancy charge. The record of the magistrate's court was that Kennedy pleaded guilty and that his counsel requested no evidence be taken.

CAN'T ARGUE

Mr. Justice Wilson directed that the conflict between the evidence and the court records be brought to the attention of the Ontario attorney-general. The Ontario Court of Appeal subsequently upheld his rejection of the application, holding that in Ontario "the record may not be contradicted."

The application to the Supreme Court of Canada raised questions that "concern the freedom of the subject and, in particular, the right of a subject to show that due process of law has not been followed."

PRINCESS MARGARETHA

Margaret Not Snubbing Queen

Sisterly Quarrel Denied

LONDON (UP)—Sources close to the royal family yesterday denied reports that Princess Margaret had been snubbing Queen Elizabeth in a sisterly rumors that Margaret had been "cold-shouldering" the Queen and Prince Philip over the Peter Townsend affair. Members of the royal family remained silent. There was also rumor that Margaret's latest romantic interest was the Rev. Simon Phipps, a 34-year-old Anglican minister. The reports of a quarrel between the 27-year-old princess and the Queen were sparked by the New York Daily News and the London Sunday Express.

The Express said Margaret "shocked" the Queen by failing to appear until after midnight at a family party on the Queen's 10th wedding anniversary.

The Daily News said Margaret had made a "fearful new appeal" to the family for permission to marry Townsend, 15 years her senior and a divorced commoner.

The news story, quoting "friends of the princess," said the Queen rejected the appeal "sympathetically, tactfully and flatly... as a result Meg has begun cold-shouldering her royal duties." But palace sources said that Margaret had the right and was fully capable of deciding for herself whether she wanted to go to various royal events. There was no mention in the London Express story of Townsend. The Second World War Margaret ended in October, 1955, after his romance with her. Margaret ended in October, 1955, after his romance with her. Margaret ended in October, 1955, after his romance with her.

'Best Diplomats' Can Think Fast

LONDON (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill thinks the French are the world's best diplomats—and he has a good reason, his former valet says.

Norman McGowan told of a visit with Churchill to the French city of Nancy. Churchill, who holds the French Medaille Militaire, was to meet all the local holders of the medal at a reception.

McGowan said he made ready Churchill's cutaway coat with the medal ribbon in the left lapel. Churchill said it should be in the right lapel.

When the reception was over, the valet related, Churchill said: "Norman, the French are the best diplomats in the world." "Then he told me what had happened, 'I was introduced to all the holders of the Medaille Militaire in Nancy,' he said.

Graves Found Empty

PLAINFIELD, Wis. (UP)—Authorities Monday dug up two of the graves butcher-killer Ed Gein said he looted and found them empty, except for a cluster of women's bones on top of one casket.

District Attorney Earl Kileen announced the empty caskets convinced him Gein told the macabre truth when he claimed he robbed graves by the light of the full moon.

No more graves will be dug up and no further investigation of Gein's skull-filled "house of horrors" near Plainfield is planned, Kileen said.

If the exhumation had shown the bodies of Mrs. Eleanor Adams and Mrs. Mabel Everson, it would have indicated Gein had murdered and butchered as many as 10 women, authorities said.

Feeling Fine After Ordeal

Feeling as good as new after spending four lonely hours in Squally Reach, Saanich Inlet, is 74-year-old Evan Pederson, 1758 Peatt Road, who

Millions For Missiles

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—The U.S. air force will build a $300,000,000 intermediate range ballistic missile launching site about 100 miles northwest of here, the Anchorage Times reports.

Service Rivalry Blamed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. Vannevar Bush, veteran scientific adviser to the government, charged yesterday that the U.S. missile program has been hampered by "damaging" rivalry among the armed forces.

He also told the senate preparedness subcommittee that the missile program is "in a tangle because of an absence of overall planning."

Bush and Dr. Edward Teller, "father" of the H-bomb, testified at the opening session of the subcommittee's much heralded investigation of this country's failure to keep abreast of Russia in the missile satellite field. (See Page 9.)

Gale Force Winds Lash Wide Area

Sudden gale-force winds drove a 74-year-old Langford fisherman on the rocks in Saanich Inlet yesterday and made a mountainside search for two missing hunters near Lake Cowichan tough sledding.

The fisherman, Evan Pederson, 2758 Peatt Road, was found smoking his pipe by a fire he built on the rocks at Squally Reach, near his heavily damaged 16-foot boat.

24-HOUR ORDEAL

The hunters, Bill and Clarence Ross, aged 31 and 24, brothers from Youbou, trudged wearily into the village of Lake Cowichan from a more than 24-hour ordeal of being lost in dense woods in the Robertson River area.

Mr. Pederson, who likes to spend most of his time fishing, left Hall's Boathouse at Goldstream at 11:30 a.m. After fishing "in good weather," in Finlayson Arm until the middle of the afternoon, he decided to try his luck in Squally Reach. The "flash" winds caught his boat and drove it on the rocks. The inboard boat suffered heavy damage to one side.

DOWN FOR NIGHT

"I got a big fire burning, lit my pipe and sat down for the night," he said.

The fire was spotted by one of two searchers, George Williams, a Hall's Boathouse employee, and Mr. Pederson and his boat were rescued. He suffered no ill effects.

The Ross brothers had gone in one side of the mountain forming part of the Mesachie range early Sunday and walked out the other side at Lake Cowichan, about 5 p.m. yesterday. They were hungry and weary, but in good shape.

RCMP and loggers searched all day for them.

POWER WIRES DOWN

In Victoria, the gusty winds tore power wires down at Bay and Rock Bay, snapped a power pole at Topaz and Graham, uprooted a tree and threw it against power lines on Fraser, tipped down a TV antenna at 104 Dallas, and may have been the cause of a chimney blaze at Langford.

Ottawa Talks Open

Bennett Asks Money, Action on Jobs, Health

Diefenbaker's Words Carefully Recalled

By PETER BRUTON

Premier Bennett yesterday asked Ottawa for a larger slice of the tax revenue pie, immediate implementation of an all-embracing national health plan and measures to forestall predicted unemployment this winter.

The demands were included in an 18-page brief presented during the opening session of the two-day federal-provincial conference in Ottawa.

It is the first conference of its kind held since the Progressive Conservatives came to power as the federal government last June, a fact that did not escape Premier Bennett.

'DOCUMENTATION'

Throughout the brief, statements by Prime Minister John Diefenbaker before the federal election were cited as "documentation" backing up B.C.'s demands.

B.C. asked that provinces be given 25 per cent of corporate and personal income taxes and 50 per cent of succession duties.

This formula would increase the present tax-sharing payments to B.C. during the current fiscal year by $26,651,000 from $38,983,000 to $65,634,000.

Premier Bennett accused the present agreement of "impeding proper national development" in almost every province in Canada.

Turning to a national health plan, the premier said B.C. was willing to take part in such a program immediately, sharing costs 50-50.

He asked that the plan include hospital care for all acute and chronic illnesses, including tuberculosis and mental illness; laboratory and X-ray diagnostic service; home nursing service; nursing home care of patients suffering from chronic illness; medical care service; and certain drugs, prescriptions, artificial limbs and appliances.

DENTAL CARE

Premier Bennett also suggested that dental care come under the national health plan for children only at first but including others as facilities became available.

On the subject of employment, the premier said that for the first time since the war "people and businesses face serious questions about their employment."

Unemployment insurance and provincial welfare measures were not satisfactory answers to unemployment, the B.C. brief said.

"The answer to unemployment is the provision of additional work which can be most speedily provided by the joint efforts of the federal and provincial governments and their municipalities," it said.

Moreover, this conference should not rise without reaching decisions which would provide additional work for our people this winter," the premier said.

The government asked that the federal government arrange for low interest loans to municipalities at interest rates not exceeding two per cent.

MUST BE FOUND

"Municipalities are faced with the most widespread demands for expenditure," said the brief. "Money for municipal purposes must be found if the standards of our communities are to be maintained."

B.C. repeated its request for a federal capital subsidy for construction of the provincially owned Pacific Great Eastern Railway.

The province is asking for a total of $19,762,500 in federal PGE grants.

Antarctic Trek Starts

LONDON (Reuters)—The Commonwealth bid to make the first land crossing of the Antarctic has begun from Shackleton base on Vahsel Bay. It was announced Monday.

Huge Talks Here Delightful Idea

Mayor Percy Scutrah was held here this year, he said. "I delighted yesterday that Premier Bennett had asked that the Commonwealth Trade Conference be held in Victoria next year."

"I think the premier has a brilliant idea," the mayor said. "I'm all for it."

The conference, he said, would be a very important one and would be of great value to the city. "It might well have permanent value to the city."

Chamber of Commerce president Hugh Stephen said the premier's suggestion was "wonderful—a chance for Victoria to draw the attention of the world."

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower suffered a series of chills after meeting King Mohammed V of Morocco at the airport yesterday and was ordered to bed by his physicians.

The illness forced the president to cancel plans to play host to the monarch at a White House dinner. He also postponed his third "Chin Up" speech in Cleveland, Ohio, slated for tonight.

The official announcement described the president's illness only as a "chill." But other White House sources said it apparently resembled Asian flu.

PRIME MINISTER

PREMIER GAYLARD

PARIS (AP)—The prime minister of Britain and France failed to reach agreement on major issues yesterday in their attempt to heal the rift in the Western Big Three alliance.

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and French Premier Felix Gaillard held afternoon and evening sessions while French right-wingers staged angry demonstrations against Anglo-American arms shipments to Tunisia.

At the conclusion of the evening meeting, both British and French sources said that despite a "common effort" no agreement could be reached on major topics, including the future of NATO, Algeria and the creation of a European free trade zone. Further meetings are scheduled for today.

Hundreds of leather-jacketed French youths demonstrated near the U.S. embassy and fired skyrockets. Heavy police cordons guarded the British and U.S. embassies while riot police charged with clubs. At least six persons were injured and 200 arrested.

The demonstrations broke out a few hours after the opening of the talks aimed at allaying French fears that Britain and the United States were trying to dominate NATO and were "muscling in" on the Algerian situation.

Suffering Albernis Demand Strike End

PORT ALBERNI (CP)—Civic and business leaders of Port Alberni and Alberni Monday sent telegrams to Premier Bennett and Labor Minister Lyle Wickes asking that immediate action be taken to settle strike of 6,000 pulp and paper workers, now in its 13th day.

The twin cities have been hard hit by the closing down of pulp and paper plants and related tree industries. The strike has cost $9,000,000 in lost production and wages.

The telegrams said the economic life of Port Alberni and Alberni has been seriously suffering.

May Speed Health Plan, Diefenbaker Announces

OTTAWA (BUP) — The pleas of the poor and demands of the rich were heard yesterday by the federal government as Canada's 10 premiers made their pitch for a fatter (by $500,000,000) slice of the nation's tax dollar at the dominion-provincial fiscal conference.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker opened the conference with the announcement that the federal government favored the idea of the national hospital insurance plan going into operation with fewer than six provinces participating. He intimated, however, that the participating provinces would have to represent at least half the population of Canada.

NOT OPPOSED

He also said he was not opposed to including the cost of looking after tuberculosis and mental patients.

But he said the provinces would have to agree that the additional cost — $68,000,000 a year of the extra benefits would have to be taken out of equalization payments made to the provinces.

Under legislation recently passed by Parliament, the provinces would not receive any federal funds for their hospital insurance plans until six provinces representing at least half of Canada's population had passed legislation setting up their hospital insurance schemes and signed agreements with the federal government.

EARLIER AID

The prime minister also announced that the federal government would start paying the provinces under the Unemployment Assistance Act for unemployed persons among the unemployed. At present, such assistance doesn't start until 45 per cent of the province's total population is unemployed.

The three Maritime premiers presented a united front in presenting their case at the conference. Mr. Diefenbaker said "some form" of special assistance should be provided for the Atlantic provinces, but left it up to the provinces to suggest what form the assistance should take.

QUICK PROPOSAL

Nova Scotia Premier Robert Stanfield, backed up by New Brunswick Premier Hugh John Fleming and Prince Edward Island's Premier A. W. Matheson, took up the suggestion immediately and proposed that the federal government pay the three Maritime provinces "adjustment grants" based on "deviation of personal income per family in the Maritimes from the national average."

Ontario Premier Leslie Frost, representing Canada's richest province, demanded from the federal government increased provincial payments in all tax fields. He declared that the present tax-sharing arrangements are "grossly unrealistic."

BIGGER SHARE

Frost restated his proposal that the provincial share of the taxation fields be increased to 15 per cent of federal income tax, 15 per cent of corporation tax and 50 per cent of succession duties.

The Ontario premier also demanded a greater share for the provinces of federal taxation on natural resource industries.

In a 40-minute speech, Quebec Premier Maurice Duplessis concentrated solely on the rights of the provinces to collect revenues through direct taxation and declared that his province would never sign any fiscal agreement that was not based strictly on taxation rights as set down in the British North America Act.

MAIN THEME

The fiery Union Nationale leader hammered home his one main theme throughout his speech: the distribution of tax powers in the BNA Act gave the provinces and federal government "equal rights" in taxation.

A vast five-year $523,000,000 secondary road program should be launched to provide highway development program would be $500,000,000, or highways for peace and development for B.C. with Ottawa picking up $192,200,000 annually for the five years wherein the federal government would share 80 per cent of the five-year program. The provincial government will make contribution proposed by Premier Bennett would be $114,000,000 or 10 per cent share costs in co-operation with the federal provincial $22,800,000 annually over five years with the provinces.

Lawyer Protests to Ottawa

Court Record False? Judges Reject Appeal

TORONTO, (AP) — Justice Duffin made public Monday a letter to Justice Minister Eglar complaining about a Nov. 11 decision by a Supreme Court of Canada panel which included Mr. Justice Charles Locke.

The letter did not refer to another Supreme Court case Nov. 18 when Mr. Duffin objected to proceeding if Mr. Justice Locke sat on the panel. The court denied the objection. However, Mr. Justice Locke withdrew from the case.

WOULDN'T LOOK

In Ottawa, Mr. Justice Locke declined either to look at or comment on the letter. He added that no doubt he would see the letter in the press "but I have no intention whatever of making any comment upon it at all."

The 2,000-word letter dated Nov. 23 dealt with the court's dismissal of an application by William Lyle Kennedy, an Ontario farmer, for leave to appeal an Ontario Supreme Court judgment upholding his conviction on a vagrancy charge.

EVEN FREEDOM

The appeal application involved "the reputation and even the freedom of the subject, whether the record of hearing is true or false" and "touches the question of the magistrate's jurisdiction to convict."

The letter said that Kennedy, who lived in Bruce County, was arrested the day after he had a dispute with his lawyer owing to the way his solicitor had acted in a matter involving his wife and farm.

Kennedy was stopped by police while driving in his own car, taken to Walkerton and was not told why he was arrested, the letter continued. He was refused permission to call a lawyer, refused bail and had $240 in cash taken from him in the search.

On May 30, Kennedy appeared in court on a vagrancy charge under a section of the Criminal Code "designed to deal with loafers and vagrants." Later he was committed to an Ontario mental hospital which returned him to jurisdiction of the court with the report there was no indication of mental illness or mental deficiency.

On July 4, Kennedy appeared again. Magistrate Otto Conrad McCrevis suspended sentence and bound him over to keep the peace.

WHICH FLEA?

On Oct. 1, Mr. Justice L. Wilson of the Ontario Supreme Court rejected an application for an order quashing the conviction. At this hearing, Crown counsel objected to the court hearing affidavits by a lawyer and others that Kennedy pleaded not guilty to the vagrancy charge. The record of the magistrate's court was that Kennedy pleaded guilty and that his counsel requested no evidence be taken.

CANT ARGUE

Mr. Justice Wilson directed that the conflict between the evidence and the court records be brought to the attention of the Ontario Attorney General. The Ontario Court of Appeal subsequently upheld his rejection of the application, holding that in Ontario "the record may not be contradicted."

The application to the Supreme Court of Canada raised questions that "concern the freedom of the subject and, in particular, the right of a subject to show that due process of law has not been followed."

Graves Found Empty

PLAINFIELD, Wis. (UP)—Authorities Monday dug up two of the graves butcher-killer Ed Gein said he looted and found them empty, except for a cluster of women's bones on top of one casket.

District Attorney Earl Kileen announced the empty caskets convinced him Gein told the macabre truth when he claimed he robbed graves by the light of the full moon.

No more graves will be dug up and no further investigation of Gein's skull-filled "house of horrors" near Plainfield is planned, Kileen said.

If the exhumation had shown the bodies of Mrs. Kleanore Adams and Mrs. Mabel Everson, it would have indicated Gein had murdered and butchered as many as 10 women, authorities said.

'Best Diplomats' Can Think Fast

LONDON (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill thinks the French are the world's best diplomats—and he has a good reason, his former valet says.

Norman McGowan told of a visit with Churchill to the French city of Nancy. Churchill, who holds the French Medaille Militaire, was to meet all the local holders of the medal at a reception.

McGowan said he made ready Churchill's cutaway coat with the medal ribbon in the left lapel. Churchill said it should be in the right lapel.

When the reception was over, the valet related, Churchill said: "Norman, the French are the best diplomats in the world."

Margaret Not Snubbing Queen

Sisterly Quarrel Denied

LONDON (UP)—Sources close to the royal family yesterday denied reports that Princess Margaret had been snubbing the Queen.

Queen Elizabeth in a sisterly quarrel over a dead romance.

Palace sources stressed that where royal functions were concerned Margaret made her own decisions on whether to attend. Other informed sources said there simply was no truth to rumors that Margaret had been "cold-shouldering" the Queen and Prince Philip over the Peter Townsend affair.

Members of the royal family remained silent. There was also no comment either on the rumor that Margaret's latest romantic interest was the Rev. Simon Phipps, a 34-year-old Anglican minister.

The reports of a quarrel between the 27-year-old princess and the Queen were sparked by the New York Daily News and the London Sunday Express.

The Express said Margaret "shocked" the Queen by failing to appear until after midnight at a family party on the Queen's 10th wedding anniversary.

The Daily News said Margaret had made a "tearful new appeal" to the family for permission to marry Townsend, 15 years her senior and a divorced commoner.

The news story, quoting "friends of the princess," said the Queen rejected the appeal "sympathetically, tactfully and flatly... as a result Meg has

False Belief About Delinquency

PEOPLE who attribute juvenile delinquency to the main to abnormal life would do well to study some illuminating figures recently published by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. They present the results of an analytical review of juvenile court returns across Canada for the year 1955. The conclusion is that the too-readily accepted doctrine that broken homes are the primary and chief cause of juveniles going astray is fallacious. A much larger proportion of those who wind up in the juvenile court for what would in adults be criminal offences come from homes that would be described as normal so far as domestic relations are concerned.

In 1955 a total of 6,452 children under 16 were dealt with by the juvenile courts. Of that number only 1,400 were children whose parents were not living together. The remainder, almost 80 per cent of the total, were brought up in homes outwardly normal. In 90 per cent of the cases the erring juveniles were attending school regularly, so that school life also could be put down as normal.

That placing the blame for juvenile wrong doing on divorce or separation is a comfortable delusion is plainly illustrated by this report, which goes to confirm conclusions reached by many of those who are in direct contact with juvenile problems. Times without number the authorities are mystified by the bad, often criminally bad, behavior of boys and girls who from infancy had been given what passes in modern society as a "good" upbringing, lacking nothing—except perhaps the firm hand of parental discipline and inculcation of the principles of right and wrong, not least of which is the right of other people.

In these days there is too prevalent a tendency to shove onto the schools responsibilities which should be discharged in the home, beginning from infancy. If the schools, receiving this human material after early habits of indulgence already have been formed, fail to produce young people normal in the eyes of the law, the blame is much less on them than on the home where the moulding process belongs. One is left to ponder, however, what value to place on the modern educationists' theories with respect to "integration" and "adjustment" on which so much emphasis is placed.

Filling Two Purposes

ONE supposes that if, when and where a new city hall is built it will be erected with an eye to the future. That is to say it will not merely be of size and facilities to meet present needs but will allow for expanding staffs. As the city keeps on enlarging so, inevitably, will the civic staffs required to manage its affairs. This means a bigger and more costly building but this situation must be faced. It would be no economy to plan a new city hall which would be inadequate a decade hence.

Victorians perhaps have grown used to what is a comparatively "pokey" headquarters of municipal government, and their minds will require reorientation on the subject. The suggestion that any new civic building should include provision for the school board emphasizes this matter of office space. The argument is similar here. Even if it stayed where it now is the day will dawn shortly when the school board will require a new building. Two birds may therefore be dispatched by the one stone if the needs of both governing bodies are grouped together.

It is not so long ago that school board offices were located in the City Hall, and there is therefore precedent for such conjunction, not to speak of the saving in building costs. Plans for the talked-about new city hall have not yet been put on the drafting board, but it may be taken for granted they envisage a building of six, seven or eight stories at least. One or two if necessary of the floors might well be assigned for school board offices. An additional merit of this proposal is that Craigdarroch could then be rearranged as a museum or like building as an asset of this nature both to the community and to tourism. It is not in any event suitable for modern civic administration, not having been built for that purpose.

Robert A. Gurney

THE sudden passing on Sunday of Mr. Robert A. Gurney, chief librarian of Victoria Press, Ltd., shortly after he had been stricken with a heart attack from which he had only just returned from hospital, came as a shock to his colleagues on both papers and all identified with their production. For almost 40 years the late Mr. Gurney had been connected with Canadian newspapers; at first with the Times-Journal of Fort William, before he enlisted for service in the First World War, and since 1930 in Victoria. In that period he had been a reporter, telegraph editor, night editor, news and magazine editor, until a few years ago when he assumed the reorganization of the archives and library of Victoria Press, Ltd., serving both papers.

"Bob" Gurney, as he was widely known in the newspaper field, blended a wide journalistic experience with a quiet capacity for work in almost any part of the endeavor. His contributions to the features and special editions of the Colonist, including the 75th anniversary number, are well remembered; while he had been at work on the centennial edition for next year for some time. An unsuspected side of his diversified talents was his mechanical aptitude, amounting almost to genius. With teleprinters, wire-photo and other semi-automatic machines, "Bob" had a way of keeping them running smoothly. His passing has left a gap, and by his many friends on the Colonist staff he will be missed.

Holidays at Tax Expense

WHILE Christmas makes its own demands on public life as well as in the homes, what is to account for the three extra days off that the provincial government is allotting to the civil service over and beyond any concession that will be enjoyed by the taxpayers themselves? Christmas Day and Boxing Day together at mid-week are understandable; but need there be two Boxing Days, with Dec. 27 thrown in? No one else in the community can expect to absent themselves from work two days after Christmas, and what of the public service meanwhile? In the next week, civil servants are apparently to have three New Year's Days. Where is there any warrant for this?

Interpreting the News:

Russia Balks at UNEF Costs

By LLOYD McDONALD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

THE future of the United Nations Emergency Force in the Middle East may be tied with Russia's position-of-strength policy which is evident in the UN General Assembly. UNEF, set up last year following the Suez crisis, has become more of a financial problem than a political one. And if the Soviet Union, as a major power, does not follow through with monetary support it may have to be cut well below present strength if not abandoned.

The Russian delegation has used a political excuse in not paying its UNEF contribution and its satellite countries have followed suit. The excuse is that the creation of the force was illegal because the UN assembly and not the Security Council voted it into existence. The Security Council was bypassed at the time because a Soviet veto would have strangled it at birth.

The Soviet stand was reiterated last week when Soviet delegate Arkady A. Sobolev told the General Assembly Russia will not pay any assessments voted by the UN to finance the force.

The Soviet Union claimed to have no direct involvement in the Suez crisis, but it was no secret that Egypt was depending for moral support—and probably more—from that quarter. Since the crisis eased, largely because of UNEF's intervention, Egypt has shown increasing signs of a generally pro-Moscow policy.

Now, with UNEF's future depending on UN assembly approval of further financial support, the Soviet delegation has been stirring up opposition to any more commitments. The Western viewpoint is that UNEF now has become a real symbol of the general policy of the world organization, and deserves backing for this reason alone.

Russia has been making some capital out of reluctance by any country to pay for a non-crisis operation, as UNEF has now become. And many members who voted to create the force have been something less than enthusiastic in helping foot the bill.

If the current UNEF debate in the assembly follows the pattern set since the vote on condemning Russia for her Hungarian intervention, there will once again be a Western paper victory yielding nothing but a moral gain. The Canadian-sponsored resolution calling for continued support of UNEF is assured of the required two-thirds majority for passage, but passage alone, as in the recent disarmament debate, means little without the co-operation of the Communist world.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

IT is improper that I should invade the sports realm, again, and only the necessity of exorcising a bee in my bonnet is warrant for such temerity. It is equally injudicious for an expatriate, no matter how ancient he may consider his vintage, to risk seeming depreciation of national games, although such is not intended.

Yet the emphasis here, this morning, will be upon an art not in the big time in Canada, to wit: association football, or, in more popular parlance, soccer.

The recognized giants of Canadian team sport, indigenous or as near that as does not matter, are hockey, baseball and football, the latter the kind that is not soccer nor yet rugby. And, I have been thinking, they are isolationist. By that I mean they are confined within the national borders.

It is true that all three have their international aspect, either with regard to the inclusion of U.S. players or U.S. towns in the league circuits, but they are not internationally competitive in the sense that soccer is. No Canadian clubs play off in championship games with U.S. clubs, strictly speaking—in hockey the U.S. clubs are merely an extension of the Canadian system—nor does Canada as such meet in international contest with the U.S.

Tennis players do and so do golfers, but these are primarily individual affairs and beyond our purview. The U.S. team sports scene is of similar restriction and, internationally considered, of equal isolation. North America as a whole is outside the intermingling orbit.

What a contrast is to be found in the soccer realm, now neither Anglo-Saxon nor Celtic but multi-racial. If sports unity as exemplified on a high-class level of performance is a factor in international unity—albeit there are occasions where one may doubt this premise—then soccer is predominant. It certainly embraces a wide-spread participation.

Cricket should not be omitted in talking of international challenge, perhaps, for six nations vie at the wickets in Test games: England, Australia, South Africa, the West Indies, Pakistan and India. But soccer sweeps the board.

The diversity of competition in this game is almost hard to follow. At the moment for example, first flight club teams from the following cities are in the throes of European Cup rivalry: viz: Berner, Budapest, Manchester, Prague, Glasgow, Milan, Amsterdam, Madrid, Bucharest and some others. Add to this the World Cup games which include national sides indicated in such a city list plus nations like Uruguay, Brazil, France, Ireland, Wales, Austria, Russia, Denmark, Sweden, et al, and the term "world" has some verity.

It is therefore time, perhaps, that Canada joined this major soccer league of nations, and the U.S. too. Isolation can have its drawbacks.

Canada, this year, has made such a move, for it has entered the World Cup series. It can scarcely hope to match the artistry of the Europeans, or of Uruguay, but the Vancouver players who will comprise the bulk of the Canadian team have strong fir hearts and feet not inapt for their purpose. They should be the herald of more glorious things to come, for once the foray is launched it surely cannot be abandoned.

"What are we fighting now—inflation or deflation?"

Gerald Waring

Reports from Ottawa

THERE are signs that some cabinet ministers are becoming nervous about the prospects of substantial unemployment this winter. It could ruin their election timing, with possibly serious results.

There are hints too that the government is prepared to resort to deficit financing to provide the economic pepper-upper the country needs. Indeed, it already appears that Finance Minister Fleming's first budget next year will have to be a deficit budget unless there is a sharp upswing in business in the next few months.

The government's economic troubles have to be viewed against the political difficulties which face the administration. The Conservatives are relatively safe from the danger of parliamentary defeat until after Louis St. Laurent quits the Liberal leadership in January. But thereafter anything could happen.

Unemployment is expected to be at its worst in March. A bold new Grit leader might force an election in March rather than wait for Prime Minister Diefenbaker to pick a time more opportune for the Tories. So what can the Conservatives do to forestall this danger?

If unemployment turns out to be only somewhat heavier than usual, the new Liberal leader may decide he has more to gain by refusing to force an election. While his party organization was being readied for an election, he might hope to make gains at the government's expense in Parliament.

Steps already taken or being taken by the Tories could induce such Liberal caution. An easing of Liberal tight credit policies, and the channeling of hundreds of millions into the hands of pensioners, wheat farmers, home builders and others are moves to jazz the economy. The way to get things spinning, it is argued, is to put more money in the hands of people who will spend it.

The Conservatives have far from exhausted the possibilities. They have promised to cut taxes this fall—and there's no better way to ensure that people have money to spend than to refrain from taxing it away from them.

Actually this course amounts to implementation of the theory of cyclical budgeting. In essence this theory is that when times are good you tax heavily to pay off debt and keep the inflationary pressures under control. And when business failures and unemployment rises and the national productivity loses its buoyancy, you ease up on taxation even if it means running in the red.

In the light of the additional expenditures to which Fleming is already committed, and things still in the offing—tax cuts, new concessions to the provinces and the beginning of hospital insurance costs next year—it does not appear that the economy can pick up quickly enough to enable the finance minister to balance his budget. For instance, responsible opinion in the States is that the U.S. economy won't start to swing upwards until mid-summer.

The Liberals, with their record of surpluses, are certain to take a jaundiced view of a deliberately planned deficit. But if deficit financing is resorted to with such obvious immediate benefits for the average citizen-voter, a cursory knowledge of human nature would indicate that the criticism won't cut much ice.

Particularly if the Tories can blame the Liberals, as they are already doing, for bringing on the crisis which forced the treasury into the red.

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

LOST hunters each hunting season cost in some cases hundreds and in others thousands of dollars, where aircraft are employed, in search and rescue operations.

It has been suggested that the hunting fraternity should pay for this in some form of insurance. And one proposal is that with each hunting licence there be sold a small survival kit which every hunter would be obliged by regulation to carry with him at all times in the bush. If this were to cost an extra dollar or two on the licence it would be a small outlay but would in a few seasons probably build up a pretty substantial reserve fund for search and rescue. The packet could contain much the same material as the army or air force survival packets contain, only in minimum quantity, but especially a six-foot flimsy plastic sheet of bright yellow which the lost hunter could spread out in an open space for easy air detection. A hunter who became lost while not in possession of his rescue kit could thus be penalized by having to pay the cost of his rescue or to be subject to a fine, payable into the search and rescue fund.

Old hunters who feel they never get lost in the bush will object to paying insurance for greenhorns. But the funny thing is that each hunting season a fair proportion of those lost are oldtimers of the type most scornful of greenhorns. With the annual increase in the hunting fraternity, it becomes more obvious that the public should not have to bear the cost of private sport.

Russian children are said to have tougher homework assignments than our boys and girls. Perhaps; but it should be remembered that our youngsters do theirs the hard way—while watching television.

Hon. Earle Westwood, minister of recreation and conservation, tells this one: An angry man came into City Hall and demanded to know why he was taxed $4 for his goat. The reply was that the charge was levied under the Municipal Act: "Any property abounding or abutting on a highway shall be taxed at the rate of $2 per foot front."

For Self-Defence

Arms for Tunisia

Following is the text of a statement made by the United Kingdom Foreign Secretary, Mr. Selwyn Lloyd, in the British House of Commons.

I DEEPLY regret the differences of opinion which have arisen with the French government over this matter, the statement of which I will briefly describe.

I wish to emphasize the following points to the House.

Tunisia, as an independent sovereign state, is entitled to arms for the purposes of legitimate self-defence and internal security, particularly in view of the need to ensure effective control of her frontiers.

Secondly, there has been no dispute whatever with the French government on the principle that any delivery of arms by any Western country must be subject to satisfactory undertakings by the Tunisian government that those arms would only be used for legitimate self-defence and internal security and would not, under any circumstances, be allowed to fall into unlawful hands.

On that point the Tunisian government gave assurances which both Her Majesty's government and the United States government regarded as satisfactory. No suggestion was made to us by the French government that the Tunisian assurances on this point were not adequate.

On the contrary, the French government were themselves prepared to send arms to Tunisia and although in the event they did not do so, this was not because of any lack of assurances on the point which I have just mentioned, but rather because certain other assurances relating to the source of future supplies to Tunisia were not forthcoming.

Thirdly, France is the traditional supplier of arms to Tunisia, and as we made clear to both the French and Tunisian governments, we believe that France should continue by agreement with Tunisia to be the main supplier.

Fourthly, it would be most unfortunate if the Tunisian government should be forced to rely upon arms coming indirectly or directly from the Soviet bloc.

In the light of those four considerations, we have been discussing this matter with the United States, France and Tunisian governments for a considerable time.

At the end of September the Tunisian government approached Her Majesty's government about the supply of arms. This followed a similar approach to the United States government. We informed the Tunisian government and the French government of our hope that Tunisian requirements could, as in the past, be supplied by France. If this were not possible, however, Her Majesty's government, in concert with the United States, would supply some arms subject to the assurance as to their use.

At every point we have consulted the French authorities fully and informed them of our communications with the Tunisian government and with the United States government. We urged and secured several postponements of the delivery of the United Kingdom and United States arms in order to meet the French difficulties. But on Nov. 14 the French and Tunisian governments informed us that they had been unable to agree on the basis upon which French arms might have been supplied.

Her Majesty's government accordingly carried out their undertaking to the Tunisian government by sending a small consignment of arms.

The United States and United Kingdom governments, in agreeing to supply these arms, have been particularly concerned to prevent a situation arising in Tunisia like that which has arisen in certain other countries where, by their readiness to supply arms, the Communist bloc have acquired a dominant position. Far from being contrary to the principles of Atlantic solidarity, this action by the United States and United Kingdom governments is designed to protect the interests of the West as a whole. There is nothing in it which would prevent France from supplying the main arms requirements of the Tunisian government.

May I repeat what I have already said. It is a great source of sorrow that we should have a difference of opinion with France. Our feelings for France, our close and intimate friendship and alliance with France, is something very special for most of us in this House.

I hope that this difference of opinion will be kept in proper perspective. It does not at all affect our view of the great position which France must hold in the Western alliance and in the world.

Editor's note: The arms involved consist of 500 infantry rifles, with 50,000 rounds of ammunition.

Crackpot Theory

Under the caption "Merge and Lose Your Assets," what kind of drive is this? We will still have 16 miles of uncared-for, unimportant waterfront, etc. Haven't the people of Victoria as great a right in improved beach facilities in Saanich as a Saanich resident has in the solution of the Roundabout and its problems?

If an individual or a company with $1,000,000 in assets found the waterfront... Any assumption that you do smacks of some crackpot Social Credit theory, in my opinion.

Training a Dog

In Saturday's letter column someone wants to know how the driver of a green car tells a dog to stay on the sidewalk. The driver of a green car appears to have found a very effective way of telling one dog not to run among traffic. Another way to tell a dog to stay on the sidewalk would be to put a collar round his neck with a leash attached and hold on to the other end.

I don't drive a green car but sometimes walk along the streets and am barked and snarled at and have been bitten by uncontrolled dogs.

There was a lot of hullabaloo recently over the Russian dog. Is it any worse to put a dog in a rocket than turn him loose on a busy street to be killed by traffic?

I understand it is illegal to let a dog run at large in Victoria. Yet some of the streets are lousy with stray dogs. They leave the streets occasionally to destroy someone's garden. No doubt they are all owned by negligent people who call themselves dog lovers, and blame someone else when a dog gets killed through the owner's negligence.

Art Gallery's Origin

An article which appeared recently in your paper linking the name of a Victoria photographer with an art centre directorate affords me opportunity to correct an impression that the Victoria Art Gallery had "its heroic beginnings in a stuffy little room on Broughton Street" and to pay tribute to the forgotten few who founded and piloted the destinies of Victoria's Art Gallery long before this era.

These public-spirited sponsors included Hon. Mark H. Kearley, Mayor H. C. Holmes, Osmond Matson, Alex. Sutherland, Mrs. J. Beattie, Mrs. G. Ewan, Margaret Clay, Gertrude Snider, Sara Spencer, Ina D. D. Uthoff, Ethel M. Bruce, Gwen Scott, Margaret Izard, Montague Bridgman, Mme. Renee Archibald, H. G. Parker, Mrs. M. Waugh, Mrs. G. P. Melrose, Miss Milligan, Cmdr. H. W. S. Soulsby, Jeanette Cann, P. F. Birley, B. R. Berrick, J. A. Whitbread, Miss A. Adamson, W. N. Garside, David Whitehead, Mrs. A. J. Tullis, Audrey St. D. Johnson, B. R. Berrick and others who toiled long and arduously with little financial support to keep the venture afloat at its original premises—an automobile showroom at 965 Yates Street, vacated in 1946 by Bundles for Britain.

In June, 1946, the "Little Centre" opened its doors to the public with an exhibition of Emily Carr paintings and in July the centre, under the chairmanship of Hon. Mark H. Kearley of the Federation of Canadian Artists, was officially opened by His Excellency Viscount Alexander of Tunis, who expressed the hope that the pioneer art centre would become a cultural asset to the capital city. At this time membership was approximately 300 and many notable exhibitions and social events were sponsored from 1946 to 1947.

For the record, the art gallery movement was born on Dec. 8, 1944, in the gymnasium of St. Margaret's School during the first general meeting of the Vancouver Island Region of the Federation of Canadian Artists.

As executive secretary of the Arts Centre of Greater Victoria from Sept., 1946, to Sept., 1947, I desire to place these facts of public interest on record, lest we forget the work of the original sponsors of the art gallery of Victoria whose labor, personal generosity and enterprise laid firm foundations for the present flourishing venture on Moss Street.

Ballet the way it should be, with lots of fire and flourishes, was presented by Kovach and Rabovsky to a delighted audience of 1,000 persons in a

If the program had any fault, it was that there was not enough "classical" dancing. Repeated applause indicated this was only a minority view, and anyway, the single "classical"

Of the assisting dancers, Sonia Arova showed considerable talent in a Grieg suite and Princess Aurora, while William Riley, a recent replacement for injured Joe Sanders, provided the comic highlight in Couperin's "The Troubadour."

Accompaniments by pianist Howard Barr and Julian Elbaz often was below the high standard of the rest of the program, but their duet, Milhauds "Scaramouche" suite gave much enjoyment. Next Famous Artists concert, Jan. 20, features violinist Yehudi Menuhin.

Tulip Mania in Bloom

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRRS

The breeding of new tulips has been going on for centuries now, ever since the first bulbs were sent from Asia minor to Vienna in the year 1572. It reached its peak in Holland during the tulip mania of 1637.

When prices of new varieties soared to fantastic heights, and when solid Dutch citizens took a flier in the tulip market in much the same way as we speculate in oil and mining stocks.

Fortunes were made and lost overnight, and in both Holland and Turkey, where a similar speculative madness swept the country, the governments had to step in and adopt a policy of price ceilings to bring the inflationary spiral to a halt. In Turkey, the black market operator who sold the bulbs of new varieties at higher than the legal price was punished by having his tongue torn out by the roots!

Over the years, the development of new tulips seems to slow down at times, then by some man's vision or the finding of a new wild specimen, it apurs ahead again. Something like this has been going on in recent years following the discovery of Foster's tulip, Tulipa Fosteriana, growing wild in the mountains of Samarkand.

The original Fosteriana was a single-stemmed tulip with a few flowers and a few leaves.

The first steps taken in the program to improve this already superb wilding were to select the best forms. Hundreds of bulbs were planted and brought into bloom, their insignificant differences noted, and the best of them grown on to multiply for the market.

This gave us the named variety Red Emperor, a vivid scarlet giant with nine-inch blooms, coming into flower amazingly early, weeks before even the single early kinds.

The next step was to breed Fosteriana with Darwin, Mendel and other varieties, and the offspring of these crosses are reaching us now in increasing numbers. Some of them are dillies.

The one which has created the greatest stir so far is, I think, Holland's Glory, which has a Darwin blood which has fashioned the strong 20-inch stem, while the width and shape of the large petals are from Foster's tulip. The color is a brilliant scarlet with just a touch of orange, flowering just a little later than Red Emperor.

Red Emperor is amazingly reasonable in price—I think I paid $1.20 per dozen for mine—but Holland's Glory is a horse from a different milk wagon. My six bulbs set me back 60 cents each, and I am twitching with anxiety for fear the field mice will get them before spring.

No Dictation, Says $100,000,000 'Manager'

'We Don't Cram Culture'

OTTAWA (CP)—"We don't have to stuff culture down anybody's throat," says the head of the country's biggest promoter of the arts, the Canada Council.

"And we're not going to help organizations that haven't the full support of the community," adds Dr. Albert Trueman, chairman of the National Film Board, from 1953 until his present appointment, earlier was president of the University of Manitoba, and from 1948 to 1953 was president of the University of New Brunswick.

The tall, grey-haired former university president said in his office, across the street from Parliament Hill, that he wanted Canadians to find themselves of any idea that the country might represent "state-dictated culture."

The council merely receives and considers applications for grants or scholarships, he said. It does not initiate projects, nor does it contemplate initiating them.

Dr. Trueman, chairman of the National Film Board, from 1953 until his present appointment, earlier was president of the University of Manitoba, and from 1948 to 1953 was president of the University of New Brunswick.

Dr. Trueman says the council makes sure any organization—such as a ballet company or symphony orchestra—is a going concern and has the support of the community before giving it financial help.

Groups of strictly local character can't be helped because there are too many of them. Preference is given companies that serve the most number of people.

Recipients of financial assistance are required to submit a detailed statement of how much money they are able to earn or raise themselves and what they will go with a grant. At the end of the term of the grant another statement must be submitted detailing what was done with the money. Sometimes an interim report is requested.

The council emphasizes it is not providing money to replace a source of income for organizations, but to add to that income for expansion.

The Canada Council was set up by Parliament last session with $50,000,000 to be invested and its income used for scholarships, awards and grants in the arts, sciences and humanities. Another $50,000,000 was provided for grants during the next 10 years for equipment and additions to universities. A charitable organization, its funds can be replenished through bequests.

Dr. Trueman is "sort of general manager." All major outlays must be approved by the full 21-member council which meets at least three times yearly.

Hollywood Today

All That—and Aldo, Too!

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Roberto Rossellini not only lost Ingrid because of his dates in India with Mme. Sonali Das Gupta, but his cameraman of 20 years, Aldo Conti, quit because: "I cannot work with a man who is so love-mad."

Bob Crosby's pretty 18-year-old daughter Cathy is about to wed a man named Dino Castelli, an assistant manager of a restaurant chain. Bob has been filling in time between television shows with personal appearance tours.

There are more people not speaking to each other on account of that Truman Capote New Yorker article on Marlon Brando than during the aftermath of fights following that long-ago same-magazine piece by Lillian Ross on Dore Schary's "Red Badge of Courage."

Director Josh Logan is furious with Marlon. Red Buttons is miffed with the magazine. Warner executives don't like Brando's remarks about his "Sayonara" role, and the caricatured Japanese are fit to be tied.

Santa Barbara saw the first sneak preview of Metro's "Brothers Karamazov," with unobstructive Yul Brynner in the audience. Good reaction. There was talk of premiering the Dostoevski classic in Moscow. But I didn't hear whether it was Russia or Idaho.

Deborah Kerr turned down "The Sound and the Fury" for two reasons—she didn't want to play a reformed lady of easy morals and, more important, she didn't relish being the mother of a 19-year-old daughter.

Metro is running the old "Ben Hur" movie—with Ramon Novarro, Francis X. Bushman and May McAvoy—in its projection room, with a "must see" order for all crew and publicity members who go to Italy for their remake of the picture next spring.

is now the sole movie writer on the lot, which is otherwise given over to television.

While on the subject of money, producer Pandro Berman is now in New York begging Bex Harrison and wife Kay Kendall to take $250,000 to play the father and mother in his production of "The Reluctant Debutante" for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

The Harrisons have rented Grace Kelly's chalet in Switzerland for four months, beginning in Dec., and the question is will they take time off in Feb. to make the picture in England. Opinion here is that, as things are now, the movie will be made next summer when Harrison will take time off from "My Fair Lady" in New York.

The bidding:
North East South West
1♣ 1♠ 1♥ 1♦
2♣ Pass 3NT All Pass
Opening lead: ♠ 2

Today's deal appears in that fine English book on the play of the cards, "Card Play Technique" by Victor Molo and Nico Gardener. It illustrates a fine point of its own, but also involves a couple of differences between American and English style which might give American experts an advantage both ways of the table.

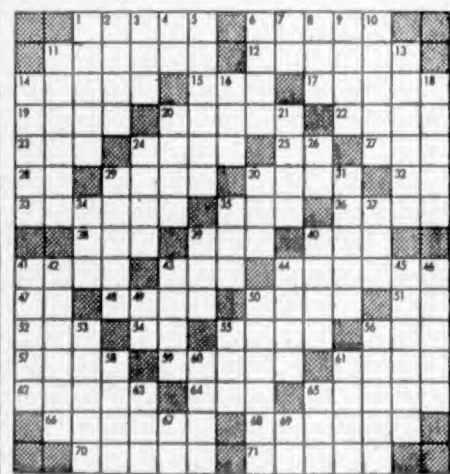

Work Seems Easier-Pleasanter
...when you're chewing smooth, good-tasting Wrigley's Spearmint Gum.
Buy some today

The book poses the problem, "What is South's best play for his contract?" The answer, when you have thought over the bidding and the opening lead, is to cover the eight of diamonds with dummy's nine-spot and allow East's ten to hold the trick. Of course, if East fathoms your plot he will lead another diamond. But the likelihood is that he will assume you have another guard for your diamond ace and he will play a spade to put partner in for another diamond lead through the queen while he still holds the ace of hearts. All that is necessary for this defense to succeed is that the South hand be unable to win two spade tricks as a result of the spade lead.

As the cards lie, however, the spade shift makes up two spade tricks for declarer to add to his six clubs and one diamond, and if East falls for your swindle you will have made your game. Since it is obvious that you can make it in no other way, you have nothing to lose and everything to gain.

The school of American experts who lead low from any three cards in partner's suit would play the deuce of diamonds from West's hand, thereby exposing the fact that declarer holds only two diamonds and making the suggested swindle impotent. But the same school would have made the contract iron-clad by choosing a different bid on South's hand. They would rue the no-trump call into North's hand. Played with North as declarer, the no-trump game could not be defeated.

Christmas Hampers

Four hundred hampers of food and toys will be distributed to needy families in Greater Victoria this Christmas in the first combined operation of the free food stall and the Christmas Bureau.

Officials of the two organizations met yesterday to complete plans for their extensive task, and decided that each hamper will contain poultry, groceries, general provisions, toys provided through the Cosmopolitan Club and possibly candies, Japanese oranges and other "extras."

Recipients of hampers will be chosen through the Christmas Bureau registry and food stall from the food stall but officials feel another $400 is needed.

"That will enable us," said a spokesman, "to give well-filled hampers with all the staples and all the little extras."

Supplies or money, should be made by Dec. 18 "to enable equal distribution."

Unlike the normal monthly food stalls, hampers will be delivered instead of picked up by recipients. Deliveries will be made by Quarter Milers, Victoria Labor Council and other volunteers. Persons interested in helping should call Mrs. Marshall.

I was a bundle of nerves

My nerves were that bad that the least little thing set me off. I was irritable, tense, easily depressed, and I slept badly. And as if that wasn't enough, I'd get indigestion.

No Need to Go at 50 MPH Just Because That's Limit

Motorists were reminded yesterday that a speed limit sign beside the highway is not necessarily a "go-ahead" to drive at that speed.

The point was made in Victoria County Court by Judge J. B. Clearhue in a judgment against a Victoria driver, whose car knocked down an elderly cyclist Aug. 30, 1956, on the Patricia Bay Highway.

The victim, Magnus Nielsen, 72, of Elk Lake, died four days later of head injuries.

ABSOLVED OF BLAME

A coroner's jury absolved the car driver, Gustave Steinbeck, of 2718 Rock Bay Avenue, of blame in the accident, and no charge was brought against him, but the county court action was brought by Gunnar Sorenson, executor of Mr. Nielsen's estate, to recover hospital and medical expenses totalling $481.

Awarding Mr. Sorenson $474 in damages, Judge Clearhue found the motorist "solely responsible" for the accident.

Mr. Steinbeck, he said, was driving the third of three cars heading north on the highway behind Mr. Nielsen. First two cars pulled out and passed the cyclist, but Mr. Steinbeck's car struck him as Nielsen turned left to go to a store by the road.

Judge Clearhue found that car following another car," said Mr. Nielsen had made a proper left-turn signal, although Mr. Steinbeck claimed he did not.

At the time, Mr. Steinbeck was travelling at 50 miles an hour in a 50-mile speed zone.

"The fact that a motorist is in a 50-mile speed zone does not mean he is obliged to drive at 50 miles an hour," said the judge. "There is a heavy onus on a bicyclist."

Mafia Runs It New York Dope Capital

NEW YORK (AP)—The justice department charged Monday that the Sicily spawned Mafia has turned New York into the U.S. narcotics capital, with an annual illicit business of between $180,000,000 and $350,000,000.

U.S. Attorney Paul W. Williams said the tightly-organized crime syndicate with its headquarters in New York City, has spread its tentacles across the country, from New York to Los Angeles, from Chicago to San Francisco, from Boston to Miami.

Williams said the Mafia uses two deadly weapons: hypodermic needles and guns. He said the Mafia has created a "big deal" for $500,000 addicts throughout the U.S.

Spectacular Saves

Although he has a style all his own, Russian goal-keeper Yevgeny Erkin played a standout game Sunday as the touring Moscow club came from behind in a three-goal deficit in the final period to grab a 3-2 tie with Windsor Bulldogs of the Ontario senior league. Erkin has caught the crowd's fancy with his spectacular saves and his tendency to roam far out of his nets. Hence, Erkin shows his colorful play as he drops to the ice to make a save.

Canucks' Streak Hits Three; Warriors Boost Prairie Lead

Vancouver Canucks, who appeared to have the rest of the Western Hockey League's western division in the palm of their hands, are suddenly looking more like a slumping hockey club than midway winners.

Canucks, who scored their fourth victory in a row, lost their third straight game Sunday in Seattle, a 2-1 setback at the hands of the visiting Seattle Totems.

Crowd Runs Wild, Several Trampled

A near-hysterical crowd of about 12,000 smashed a three-foot fence and broke through police lines at Stevenson Field in Winnipeg Sunday in a tumultuous welcome for Winnipeg Blue Bombers that turned into an all-out riot.

The crowd, which had begun to gather two hours before the plane bearing the Western Canadian football champions was due, swarmed across the tarmac when it landed and proceeded to run wild.

At least six women and a child were trampled from the field after falling or being trampled. A public address system, to be used to introduce the players as they stepped from the plane, was smashed and the wires cut.

Manitoba Resources Minister F. C. Bell, representing the province, was elbowed by the crowd and could not get to the tarmac reception. He was jeered and taunted for trying.

The Vancouver had to be taken out of service to check for damage after the crowd crawled over the wheels, dangled from wing tips and propellers, and hammered at the fuselage.

EXTRA POLICEMEN
Twenty extra policemen had been sent to the airport to try and stop the crowd. Trucks were sent circling over the field in an effort to force it back, but most were prevented.

There will be no repeat performance of the scene next Sunday when the Bombers return from the Grey Cup final in Toronto against Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

Keith Robinson, airport manager, said he would demand that the plane returning from Toronto land three miles out on the furthest runway. Players will be driven to the stadium to meet the fans, and no one will be allowed at the airport.

As for next Saturday's Grey Cup game and the excitement surrounding it, things are off to their usual stereotyped start. You can't have a hotel room in Toronto where eastern fans are confident that this year is the year the east gets back the cup.

Reporters from the two camps presented two different pictures. Hamilton Tiger-Cats are linking their chips in anticipation of a big win while the Bombers are soothing their wounds.

QUICK CHANGE
Bookmakers who had favored the West in anticipation of the Edmonton Eskimos being in the final for the fourth straight year, have suddenly shifted the odds from 5-2 West to 6-5 in favor of the T-Bats.

General feeling seems to be that while the Bombers played inspired football to defeat Edmonton they have too many injuries to come up with another "big" game and beat the T-Bats.

Bookie coach Bud Grant has decided to keep his Bombers in Winnipeg, where his crutches can be near the Bomber training room and medical staff until Thursday morning when they will leave by plane for Toronto.

Bombers came out of the western final with numerous bumps and bruises and two major casualties.

Most concern is over fullback Charlie Shepard, whose kicking played such a vital part in their victory. Shepard, who went into the third game with a badly bruised hip, came out of it with the same injury as well as a twisted knee.

Halfback Leo Lewis suffered torn rib cartilages but will almost certainly suit up Saturday as trainer Jim Ashley is confident the Lincoln Locomotive can be taped up. Halfback and defensive linemen Pete Mangrum is also on the limp.

Grant hopes that by keeping his players in Winnipeg until Thursday, he will have every-one ready for action on Saturday.

PEAK FORM
The situation is different in Hamilton where the T-Bats, who trampled Montreal Alouettes 56-11 in the two-game eastern final, appear to have reached a peak and are in top physical shape.

It is expected that the game will be another of the Winnipeg Edmonton type, with Cookie Gilchrist and Gerry McDougall taking the part of Edmonton's Normie Kwong and Johnny Bright.

Both clubs stuck mainly to the ground and Hamilton boasts the strongest defensive unit in the east, possibly in Canada. The event in the Hamilton attack is on possession and ball control.

Neither the Bombers nor the T-Bats have been in the Grey Cup final since 1953, when the Hamilton club halted a desperate last-minute drive by the Bombers to win.

DETROIT Lions slipped back along with the 19ers and Rams when they were whipped, 27-7, by Chicago Bears. And Green Bay Packers ruined hopes of Pittsburgh Steelers that they would stay in the Eastern division rare with a 27-0 upset victory.

Philadelphia beat Washington 21-17 in the other game.

Russians Planning Puck Tour of U.S.

WINDSOR, Ont. — The United States will send a hockey team to Russia next year while a Russian team is touring the United States, the Soviet Ice Hockey Association announced Sunday.

Korotkov, who is in charge of the touring Moscow Selects, said a tour of the U.S.A. playing college and amateur teams is being arranged for next November. The American team would play in Russia at the same time.

He also announced that the U.S. entry in the world hockey tournament at Oslo, Norway, this year will play two games in Moscow March 17 and 18. Korotkov has invited Canadian Amateur Hockey Association officials to send a national team to Moscow next year.

The Selects who appear to be getting better as they go along, played to a 5-5 tie with Windsor Bulldogs Sunday before a capacity crowd of 10,000.

It was the second game of the seven-game tour for the Russians, who were beaten 7-2 by Whittier Bulldogs in Toronto last Friday. The visitors play Kitchener Waterloo Dutchmen in Kitchener tonight and meet Sudbury Wolves at Sudbury Thursday.

Selects scored three goals in eight minutes of the first period for the tie and then superior conditioning kept the Bulldogs scoring in the late stages. The Russians held a workout on the ice immediately after the game.

Members of Taylor's winning rink were Jim Vandenberg, third; Donna Smith, second; and Val Taylor, lead.

Alberni Cagers Split Weekend Hoop Series

PORT ALBERNI (Special) — Vancouver C.F.N. and Alberni Athletics split their senior "A" men's basketball doubleheader here last weekend as the Vancouver squad came back to win from the A's 70-67 Saturday night after being edged 50-49 on Friday.

The Vancouver squad which appears to be cementing its name on team play rather than depending entirely on its great centre, Bob Probert, overcame a 21-10 first-quarter deficit in their Saturday night game. Probert led both clubs with 17 points, while flashy Ray Good preserved the one-point lead.

Soccer Riot On Mainland

NEW WESTMINSTER (C.P.) — A minor riot, involving fans and players from two New Westminster teams developed at a soccer game here Sunday.

Hungarian fans swarmed on the field and the fight started.

The game was stopped when the Legion was leading 2-1.

Police were called, but the fight was over when they arrived.

Detroit Ties Habs

Howe, 'Big' Line Spark Wings' Rise

New York Rangers and Montreal Canadiens are still comfortably running one-two, but there were indications last week that the Detroit Red Wings have more balance than for some seasons and that this season will see a scramble for the four playoff spots.

Detroit Red Wings, with Gordie Howe showing those who were starting to think he had shipped that he is still quite a hockey player, came out of the weekend with three of four possible points.

Howe scored a goal in the 21st win over Toronto Maple Leafs on Saturday, then scored twice and set up the third goal as the Wings gained a 3-3 stalemate with Canadiens on Sunday.

Howe's line which has Red Kelly, a regular at left wing, and Norm Ullman at centre, dominated in the two games, as the Wings have finally put together a big line.

Ullman had a goal and two assists in the two weekend games while Kelly dominated his centre efforts to give the

DENNIS YOUNG

Can't Tell For Sure

If City Comptroller Dennis Young is right in a provisional budget for 1958, that is partly and necessarily guesswork. Victoria's tax rate may rise about 7 per cent next year.

Mr. Young informed finance committee yesterday that as requested by the new Municipal Act, he had prepared a preliminary budget which would be ready for presentation to the 1958 council at its inaugural meeting.

UNKNOWN FACTORS

Not knowing if there would be a surplus or a deficit for this year, nor how large the school district requisition might be, Mr. Young allowed $50,000 for contingencies on top of sums known to be required.

The result was a provisional budget for 1958, totaling $7,500,000, up about $500,000 from this year's.

HOW MANY MILLS?

At this year's total assessment value, a $500,000 increase in taxation would equal more than four mills in the tax rate. But the 1958 total assessment will be a little higher, making $7,500,000 equal to perhaps slightly more than three additional mills.

In its regular budget sessions in the spring the new council will be able to raise or lower this provisional budget as circumstances demand.

Angry Grocer Fights Back With Free Milk

An angry grocer is fighting back against a new law that starts giving away free milk with food orders to at least $10 worth of groceries.

CCF Cry:

'Kick 'Em Out'

Resolutions calling for the dismissal or suspension of Highway Minister P. A. Gallagher and Attorney-General Robert Bonner were passed by the Victoria CCF Association at its meeting last night.

One resolution said that as Premier Bennett threatened dismissal to any civil servant who did not do his duties correctly, he should remove or suspend Mr. Bonner, who failed to do his duty in the Sommers case.

SURELY RELUCTANCE

Another resolution called for Mr. Gallagher's suspension "in view of his sure reluctance to accept the laws of this country and the administration of these laws by the RCMP in respect to a recent infringement of the law committed by Mr. Gallagher."

The resolutions are sent from here to the CCF provincial office then to the government.

Around the Island

Wrongly Convicted

NANAIMO — "We are all placed in an embarrassing position," Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts, told Nanaimo man David Gilbert when he was released from jail yesterday.

Mr. Gilbert was sentenced to two years' imprisonment last week after pleading guilty to a charge of attempted rape. He was told that the trial would have been started again because the magistrate had discovered it was not within his jurisdiction to take the case.

ALBERNI — Thomas Atkinson, well-known resident of Alberni, died yesterday at the age of 81.

Mr. Atkinson had lived in the district since 1912, working for many years in Alberni Pacific division simple mill and in recent years for Dolans Ltd.

Surviving are two nephews, Don Watson, Alberni and James Pakenham, Port Alberni, and a niece, Mrs. H. L. Hopkiss, Victoria.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday at All Saints Church, Alberni. Rev. A. P. Hasfield officiating. Burial will be in Greenwood cemetery.

The Campbell River Development Corporation has announced acceptance of the government's terms pertaining to the Campbell River project. The corporation plans to create 16 landfills, 20 acres of "key business property" in the downtown area of Campbell River.

NANAIMO — Considerable damage was caused yesterday when fire broke out in the home of Mike Wozniak at 630 Third Street.

Causes of the fire are not yet known. No one was in the house at the time and there were no personal injuries.

GANGES — Trustees were elected to Gulf Islands school boards recently at annual meetings held at Sattuna, Mayne, Colford, Ganges and Central Hall.

J. Campbell was elected for a two-year term at Sattuna. W. Morson was elected for two years at Mayne. A. L. Dane was re-elected by a landslide at Colford. W. Grayford was elected for a two-year term at Ganges. L. Proctor was appointed auditor for the year and at Central Hall, S. Spring Island, G. Henneke was elected a trustee for the North Salt Spring area for a two-year term.

Annual meetings were also held at Pender and Galiano.

NANAIMO — Federal services will be held tomorrow for Gordon Irving Smith, 19 of Sattuna, Ganges. His home, 19 Sattuna, was destroyed by fire last Sunday.

NANAIMO — A 16-year-old boy was fined $25 and placed on 12 months probation for being drunk and having liquor in his possession. Terms of probation laid down by Juvenile Court Judge Lionel Beevor-Potts include a 10 p.m. curfew and prohibition against driving any car—and drinking liquor.

CHEMAINUS — North Cowichan council has been given permission by deputy minister of municipal affairs J. E. Brown to continue with a five-man council, even though the new Municipal Act requires seven.

Indication that there is still some doubt in the mind of the deputy minister and his staff was shown in the instruction that five votes would be needed to amend by-laws, as the statutory number of council is seven.

At a previous meeting, the vote had been lost to one against adding to the present council unless compelled by law.

COUN. D. C. Moulton voted for the increased number, saying that the work required of the present council was more than the average man who was earning a living could afford to give.

TOFINO — Council president of the newly formed Tofino Council, Mr. J. E. Brown, was elected yesterday.

NORTH COWICHAN — Council has been informed by L. C. Haddock and H. W. Gladwell, owners of Glenora Bay Lodge, that Highway Minister P. A. Gallagher has agreed to carry out a survey in connection with a road joining Glenora Bay Road with Ketchikan Road.

The road connection would give a scenic drive around the peninsula.

The council previously said a new road would be financially impractical but now says it is willing to take an interest in the plan, if the province is prepared to give assistance.

TOFINO — Teachers from the Tofino-Unionville High School attended the last meeting of the PTA here to meet parents and help in explanation of report cards.

Attending the meeting were principal C. P. Goodwin, Mrs. C. R. Goodwin, Grade 9 teacher, W. W. C. O'Neill, senior English and social studies teacher and P. R. King, industrial arts and physical education instructor.

NANAIMO — R. M. Perrett, East Wellington, G. Shyne, Cedar, and Dr. K. Ketchen, Departure Bay, will be suggested by Nanaimo School Board as suitable rural representatives for School District No. 68.

Lacked Chains, Drivers Fined

HOPE (CPI)—RCMP warned motorists again Saturday not to attempt to travel on the Hope-Princeton Highway without snow tires and chains. They said two persons have been fined $10 each for trying to travel on the highway without these precautions.

NANAIMO — For the third time in five days, burglars struck in Nanaimo, entering the Serve-U-Rite Grocery by way of a Nicol Street apartment.

Thieves entered through the ground floor bedroom window of newspaper reporter Malcolm G. Bart's apartment, took three U.S. silver dollars and a flashlight. From the store they took $3 in cash and a quantity of cigars.

Last week, Barton's Grocery, about two blocks away on Victoria Road, was broken into and before that, the Canadian Legion on Wallace Street.

NANAIMO — RCMP found Family Bay man John Robert Finlay blocking traffic on the Island Highway while he sat behind the wheel of a car drinking a bottle of beer.

Finlay was fined $150 for impaired driving and a further $50 for drinking liquor in a public place.

CHEMAINUS — A $10,000 sewer bylaw for Chemainus and a $7,000 sewer bylaw for Crofton were given first, second and third readings by North Cowichan council. Both bylaws will be voted on in the Dec. 12 elections.

NANAIMO — New president of Nanaimo County Real Estate Board is Bill Luthala. He replaced Charles Lenhart, who resigned recently.

Egg Market Shows Signs of Revival

After a long downward trend that brought prices to new November lows, the Victoria egg market showed signs of a revival yesterday.

Prius gains were reported on all sizes of grade "A" eggs. Large eggs were up two cents a dozen; medium up three cents and small up six cents.

The new prices to producers are 33 cents for large, 27 cents for medium and 23 cents for small. Retailers set their own prices.

Esquimalt Plans Welfare Bonuses

Payments of a Christmas bonus to those receiving welfare benefits in Esquimalt was approved by municipal council last night.

The municipality pays bonuses of $5 to family heads and $2 to single persons, and is reimbursed by the provincial health and welfare department on an 80 (provincial)-20 (municipal) for municipal cases and 100 per cent provincial contribution for the province's welfare cases.

SAVORY PORK
(3 to 4 servings)

Two tablespoons fat, 1 medium onion, chopped; 1 green pepper, chopped; 3 stalks celery, chopped; 1 cup hot water or stock; 1 cup left-over pork, 2 cups minced, seasoned pork, head, pepper and salt, a pinch of oregano or thyme.

Cook onion, green pepper and celery in fat for a few minutes until onion is clear but not browned. Add the liquid and head pork cover and simmer about 15 minutes till reheated. Add seasonings and serve with boiled rice.

MOCK CUTLETS
(Makes 6 cutlets)

One tablespoon fat, 2 table-spoons flour, $\frac{1}{4}$ cup stock or left-over gravy, 2 cups minced cooked beef; 2 tablespoons tomato ketchup; $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon dry mustard, if liked; seasonings.

Melt fat in saucepan, stir in the flour and add the liquid gradually, stirring slowly to the ball stirring until the knead.

Add the other ingredients blending thoroughly. Turn out on to a plate to cool and use bread crumbs. Fry a golden brown on both sides in a little hot oil. Then fry six pieces of uncooked macaroni, about 1½ inches long. Push the macaroni into narrow end of each "cut let" to resemble a bone. Arrange all in a bowl and add creamy mashed potatoes. Serve with gravy or tomato sauce.

The following is rather a different sort of relish which has proved very popular. You might care to make it in the near future for the upcoming holiday season. Make the quantities, perhaps till you see if you like it.

RAW CARROT RELISH

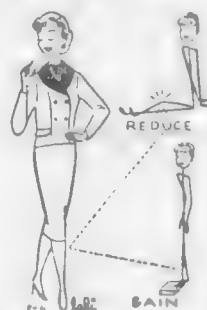

Three cups grated carrots
2 cups chopped sweet peppers; 2 cups chopped green peppers; 4 cups grated cabbage; 2 cups finely chopped onion; 1 cup granulated sugar; 1½ cups vinegar; 2½ tablespoons salt; 2 tablespoons oil. Blend seed 2 tablespoons relish seed

Mix all vegetables. Combine with sugar and heat to boiling point. Pack into hot sterilized jars and pour boiling vinegar containing seasonings over them to fill jars and seal immediately.

Crumble one Oxo cube with one tsp. flour. Add cup cold water,

THE LOG AND THE HEMLINE—Besser as you may, shapely skirts are hard to sway for a split. So should a girl call need either a reduction or a build-up, you had better get on the job. Shapeliness is more than ever crucial.

For reducing the fattest calf work on the exercise. Sit on a padded floor with legs on a stool. Raise right knee slowly and hold as long as possible, then drop down, snap calf against floor. Alternate legs, repeat 20 times daily. Work with crushing but not distressing force.

To build up the calf use this posture. Stand barefoot on edge of thick book, spring heels dangle, slowly stretch back, forward, hold for stretch and release to starting posture. Repeat for five minutes daily.

For maximum success add diet to exercise if your overall weight is less than ideal.

LEGLINE TRIMMERS

If your individual problem is heavy, leg, pain for my new leaflet Legs in Trimmers, which contains spot reducing exercises that will meet your individual needs, whether for thighs, knees, calves or ankles, or for contouring your entire legline. Write me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover handling.

TV TALK

By Bruce Lowther

"Pied Piper of Hamelin" first of two special NBC shows of "Two Nights" is on channel 11 at 7:30 tonight.

It should be worth watching, so continue around

President Eisenhower's third "news" show, scheduled for tonight in the accompanying program, scheduled for tonight in the accompanying program, scheduled for tonight in the accompanying program.

Truth as usual. Best of the old movies are "A Red for Action" and "Black Natities".

Science on Verge Of Creation of Life?

WASHINGTON (NANA) — Biologists may be approaching actual synthesis of living organisms capable of reproduction. They are following the probable path which life first appeared in the seas about 2,000,000,000 years ago.

This exciting prospect comes from recent studies of filterable viruses, the infinitesimally minute living particles responsible for many of the most serious human, animal and plant diseases, according to a report on current needs of American science just issued by the National Science Foundation.

Behavior of the minute particles is being studied under electron microscopes which magnify them thousands of times. "They are seen," says the report, "to be tadpole-shaped bodies with oval heads and slender tails. In attacking, such a virus uses a tail-first assault. It backs into a bacterium, using its tail to penetrate the outer coating, and then acts as a living hypodermic needle."

Material originally concentrated in the head of the virus passes down through the tail. A hollow tube less than a millionth of an inch in diameter, and into the bacterial cell. Twenty minutes or so later the cell bursts, yielding about 100 duplicates or near duplicates of the original virus.

"The material which viruses inject into bacteria is a so-called nucleic acid. Its molecules somehow reproduce themselves inside bacteria and use bacterial substances to assemble new viruses."

Analogue processes taking place in principle seas may have brought about the origin of life more than 2,000,000,000 years ago. "Analogue processes taking place in the laboratory at some future date may yet enable investigators to synthesize reproducing things for the first time."

householders with oil furnaces to keep oil storage tanks above the ground and in their homes. This had previously been forbidden under the Fire Marshal Act because it was considered a fire hazard. Homeowners had complained about the regulation stating that it added considerably to the cost of installation. The new regulation allows above-ground tanks up to 300 gallons and states that if they are indoors they must be on the lowest floor of any building and at least 10 feet from any burner.

Highway fatalities dropped by almost 30 per cent during October, provincial motor vehicle branch officials said yesterday.

During the first 10 months of the year traffic deaths have dropped by 55—from 243 during the same period a year ago to 190 this year—although the number of accidents in the same time have increased from 18,908 to 20,288.

Tax Increase
Voting Issue
In Sidney

SIDNEY—The Sidney village election will be fought over a tax increase imposed on ratepayers last year.

Lined up in opposition to the tax increase are Harold Fox and William Laird, both Sidney merchants, and George L. Baal. Another possible candidate is J. E. Boshier, who may be nominated by Sidney Ratepayers' Association at a meeting to be held Friday.

Mr. Fox served as chairman of the council from 1952 to 1954. He said last night that when he was elected he promised there would be no tax increases. There were none during his term.

Mr. Laird is a newcomer to the municipal political scene and Mr. Baal is opposing Dr. C. H. Hemmings for the position of council chairman.

Explosion to Prove
Ripple Rock 'Roots'

How the Ripple Rock explosion next spring may prove that mountains have "roots" was explained to the Gryo Club yesterday by geophysicist William Milne of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory.

To blow off the twin "peaks" of Ripple Rock in Seymour Narrows, 750 tons of dynamite twice as powerful as the ordinary kind will be used. Instruments will be set up across British Columbia and Alberta, Mr. Milne said, to record the length of time it takes the resulting waves to travel down through the earth's crust, horizontally through the "mantle" beneath the crust, and back up through the crust to the recording points.

Recent tests in which the Royal Canadian Navy has set off depth charges in the Gulf of Georgia have established the thickness of the crust here as approximately 20 miles, he said.

Other factors such as the speed of the waves through the crust and the mantle being should enable seismologists to work out the thickness of the crust in a number of places across the two provinces.

The observations may enable them to prove what is now only a theory: that for every mile mountains rise above the general surface of the earth, the crust extends downward an extra five miles or so into the heavier plastic rock of the mantle.

The mantle, Mr. Milne said, is believed to occupy about one-half the radius of the earth, and inside that is the core. The crust at the surface is about three miles thick under the ocean, and about 20 miles thick under the plains.

The Ripple Rock blast, intended to remove a menace to navigation, is scheduled to take place in April when fish will be at a minimum in the narrows, Mr. Milne said. To minimize any tidal-wave effect, it will be set off two hours before low slack-tide, while the maximum flow of water is pushing northward.

Increase in the salaries of two Workmen's Compensation Board commissioners from $10,000 to $11,500 a year was authorized by the provincial cabinet yesterday.

The pay boosts, effective Dec. 1, were given WCB commissioners Ernest V. Ahlert and Christopher W. Pritchard, both of Vancouver.

Provincial cabinet has named the five government appointees to the board of the Public Services Medical Plan.

They are: W. H. Forrest, as assistant deputy provincial secretary and deputy superintendent; Dr. A. E. David, deputy director of mental health services; C. F. Swannell, deputy controller-general; A. L. Pearson, departmental solicitor; and Miss J. M. Riddell, supervisor, family division, department of welfare.

Five other members of the board will be named by the B.C. Government Employees' Medical Services.

The provincial government is now paying 50 per cent of the premiums of all civil servants in the medical services plan.

Disappointment Again

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

Shareholders of Crown Zellerbach Canada Ltd. were informed over the weekend that the directors had decided to cut in half the dividend for the final quarter of the year.

The company will pay 12 1/2 cents instead of 25 cents, making 87 1/2 cents for the year against $1, as earlier planned. Peter T. Sinclair, president, said that 1957 figures had not been as good as 1956 in the forest industry and the general marketing position had been aggravated by the strike at its two pulp and paper mills at Ocean Falls and Elk Falls, and cut off the dividends of the minority who declined to exchange into Crown Zellerbach Corporation shares. The reason given was that the profits were needed to finance expansion.

In 1956, the minority was given another chance to exchange into Crown Zellerbach, Canada. At the same time, as taken on Canadian opinion, Crown Zellerbach Corporation offered about 5 per cent of its interest in its Canadian subsidiary to the public. Some 270,000 shares were sold at $25 a share. The company stated it intended to pay $1 a year in dividends.

A few weeks ago when Crown Zellerbach Canada's report for the first nine months of this year indicated it might not earn $1 a share on the year, this column expressed the view it might be touch-and-go with maintaining the indicated rate. Now the cut has happened and Canadian shareholders who went in hopefully a year ago at $25 must be wondering how that this had caused the directors to decide on a lower dividend.

The decision, sound though pretty close to the current market. They reflect the recently found strength in the bond market, and the indication is that the government is not willing to keep up in long range financing at present prices.

The government presumably feels that it may soon be able to pick a time of lower yields and stronger demand for its longer term offerings.

The clearing total of the Victoria Banks Clearing House of the week ending Nov. 21 was $10,936,542, compared with $11,899,986 in the corresponding week of 1956.

It may be another disappointing episode in the B.C. activities of this large, U.S.-controlled pulp and paper firm.

One of the early actions of the company after securing majority control of Canadian Western Lumber through a share exchange offer was to that investment is stacking up for the future. For the moment it is worth $14 1/2.

The bond experts took yesterday's Canadian government decision to stick with short-term financing in its new issue of $650,000,000 three-per-cent bonds as an indication of a long term strengthening of the market.

The new three per cent rate to be used for two purposes. An issue of $250,000,000, to redeem a like amount of bonds falling due on Dec. 15, will mature Oct. 1, 1959, and at an offering price of $98.60 they will yield 3.81 per cent.

The other issue of $400,000,000 will be used to convert part of the $1,000,000,000 worth of two-per-cent and three per cent government bonds due for redemption next May 1. These bonds are to be sold at $97.60, to redeemable on Dec. 15, 1960, to yield a yield of 3.85 per cent.

The bonds will be of chief interest to institutions and financial houses and are priced

This Deer's Dead — Won't Lie Down

PENTICTON, B.C. (CP)—Hunters are maintaining an embarrassed silence about the deer in the Rock Creek area near here that they can't kill. The big buck has had its horns and legs shot off and during the course of a day as many as 100 bullets have been pumped into it. Some hunters fire from behind their cars. Others crawl on their stomachs to within a few yards of the deer before shooting. Invariably they leave quietly and crestfallen. The deer is stuffed and mounted. It always stands 200 yards from the highway and is given extensive repairs each day by its practical-joker owner.
